

Andrew Carroll – OnBoarding Officers Tutor

Andrew is a Chartered Director and Independent Consultant. He read Philosophy, Politics & Economics at Oxford before completing Post-Graduate studies in Economics at London University.

His principal focus is with leadership teams around strategy, change and innovation as they seek to communicate and market themselves, internally and externally, to achieve maximum impact and effectiveness.

His early business experience was focused on strategy and leadership, as a management consultant with Mercuri Urval and as a senior executive with General Accident.

Over the last twenty years he has worked independently and as a non-executive, mainly in financial, public and professional services, with a wide range of organisations from FTSE-100 Companies to SMEs and Start-Up Micro-Businesses.
